The Office of Diversity and Inclusion presents its brown bag lunch series

Diversity Dialogue

“What Actually Works for Reducing Health Care Disparities”

- Join the Office of Diversity and Inclusion for its brown bag lunchtime discussion: “What Actually Works for Reducing Health Care Disparities” on Thursday, May 26, 2016 from 12-1PM. Marshall Chin, MD, MPH, Professor of Healthcare Ethics in the Department of Medicine will facilitate this month’s discussion.

- For the past 11 years, the University of Chicago has been the national program office for the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Finding Answers health care disparities program. Finding Answers has learned how to reduce disparities through working with over 30 organizations that are implementing disparities interventions and by reviewing over 400 examples from the literature. We'll discuss what we have learned from these national efforts and how these lessons might apply to Chicago.
